

Justice and Evil

1. Motivation behind Research Paper

Environmental destruction, gender issues, racism, war — the world that we live in is full of problems. To solve them, people give donations, do volunteer activities, and follow the Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs). Two years ago, I learned the acronym SDGs for the first time, and I also learned that all people on the Earth must work together to solve many problems. Is it really possible for everyone on earth to cooperate with one another? It is highly unlikely that the earth will die in our lifetime. Is it possible to stop the destruction of the earth for the sake of the humans who live in years to come?

Everyone has a different culture, language, and set of values. It would be best if we could just walk up to people you have never met on the other side of the world and accept them for their differences. And if those people are suffering, can we human beings help them without thinking about profit? Thousands, tens of thousands of years, hundreds of millions of years from now, even if the earth becomes hot due to global warming, we will have died long ago, and people in distant countries will be starving. Even though we are full. Sometimes I am surrounded by so much rice. "Realization of a sustainable society" is a phrase I often hear, but I have to act. As a motive to do this, it is super weak, and I do not understand the meaning well. The earth's population is 7.954 billion and I believe that this number is far too large for us to sustain.

2. Introduction

In reality, negative lumps that were created by humans many years ago and were postponed for many years have been living on the earth that everyone loves. Recently, the earth finally belongs to everyone, let us think about it as our own. Are there any changes? Isn't this current situation proof that humans are sad monsters and selfish? Who destroyed the nature of this world one after another? What drove animals to extinction? Which country emits the most carbon dioxide? Who ate my onion rings without permission yesterday? Yes, they are all human. Isn't human extinction the quickest way to solve the problem? Extinction may be the only solution left for humans who cannot work hand in hand with each other. Well, I was born in this world, so it is frustrating for people to go to heaven (are people hell?) without knowing anything about this world. This is human research. It is your own research.

3. Results and Analysis

Even though I was doing my own research, how would I go about researching this? It's been almost a year since I wrote the introduction. It seems that I can't graduate without writing, so I finally picked up this brush. I feel like a genius writer who is pressed for a deadline. I'm sorry. So, if you ask me if I came up with something, I really don't. What is good and bad in just three years? Or what does it mean to live? It was impossible. However, after reading Michael Sandel, meta ethics, the Bible, and many other books, I realized that I would never understand this for the rest of my life. In metaethics, good and evil can easily change depending on the point of view of thinking, and first of all, I honestly do not know if metathinking is possible for humans. I am crazy. I was not supposed to have the answer at 18.

4. Conclusion and Future Problems

But that does not mean we did not find anything. Until the other day, I was not so attached to life, but I thought that I really wanted to live. It is really a waste to die without solving even though there are such great questions. I believe that it is very wasteful if people do not try. I am grateful to God for my life.

5. Reflection

How people want to live changes from person to person. Every second, people are changing their minds about their approach to living their lives. Therefore, there is no real answer. I also wonder if the best thing to do is to simply enjoy life. Personally, I think that that is the answer at this stage. It turned out like a useless essay, but it is okay. I'll write more when I'm older.
